TRUSTEE'S REPORT

The Board of Trustees of the Public Library of the Town of Enfield present the following report for the year ending February 15, 1915.

The reports of the Librarian and Treasurer indicates the prosperity and successful working of the library.

We believe that the function of the library is to bring good books into the hands of all the citizens of the town. As in former years books have been carried free of charge to the patrons of Enfield Center, the post office serving as an exchange station. In accordance with the agreement with which the books from Rev. C. M. Addison were received last year, a branch library of one hundred books has been maintained at the East Hill school-house. The district schools in other parts of the town have also had library advantages.

We have been able to co-operate with the schools of the town to a larger degree than ever before. We have endeavored to keep in touch with the studies as pursued in the schools especially those relating to history, geography, science and English. Whenever a reference book has been needed that we could not supply, we have taken the pains to secure it without expense to the town from some other library. A collection of books purchased by vote of the school district has been kept in the library to be distributed as needed in the different schools of the town.

We have received as a gift The International Encyclopaedia which the State Librarian and the Librarian of Congress regard as the best encyclopaedia for a town library. After April 1st it will be accessible to all who desire to use it.

Last Spring a flower contest was conducted by the trustees of the library. In consequence we have in the library a fine collection of the spring flowers of Enfield carefully pressed and mounted. The first prize was won by Miss Annie Nichols whose collection of 63 different flowers was neatly mounted on stiff paper in book form.

Our needs are : 1st, more books of poetry, travel, biography, history and science ; 2nd, and the re-binding of many books whose covers are outworn. To our voters we look for the means to supply these needs.

In closing our report, we wish to say that the public library exists for the purpose of not only providing books but also of helping people to use them. We will be glad to answer questions from anybody who wants to know what book to read or to borrow for their use any book that our library does not contain.

We desire to thank all who have contributed to make our work a success.

Respectfully submitted,

ELMER E. JONES,

ELLA M. PATTEE,

ALBERT S. KILBOURN.

REPORT

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

MR. THOMAS A. ROBERTS,

Superintendent of Schools :

I herewith submit my report as Principal of Enfield High School for the term ending December 18, 1914.

With every change of administration in school affairs changes in method are sure to come. No two school men will have exactly the same methods for getting results. A system which one man uses may not be as successful in the hands of another. I have introduced new methods of teaching and management which, I believe, will enable me to make the school, in a general way, a better school than it was when I took it. This introduction has been made, not in the way of criticism of any former management, but to enable me to accomplish more with the tools with which I am familiar.

As I realize that it is my duty to acquaint the citizens and parents with the actual workings of the institution in which they have vital interests, it is most happily, I assure you, that I will state my aims and suggestions for the future educational welfare of the community and its young people. Generally speaking, education must develop a system under which each individual citizen must be trained so as to be effective individually as an economic unit, fit to be organized with his fellows so that he and they can work in efficient fashion together.

I fully realize that this is the age in which the community ideal is uppermost. This means that our governments, our churches and our schools exist not for any individual or group of individuals, but that they are only performing their proper functions when they serve the entire community all the time. Any school which does not serve all the legitimate needs of the community, in so far as it is economically consistent so to do, is not considered efficient, and efficiency is the magic word of the twentieth century. In my individual teaching and community influence I try not to think too much in grooves lest I should make education a sealed package. It seems to me that a young man or young woman cannot become a good scholar, a good lawyer, a good physician, a good soldier or an efficient worker in any profession or trade until he or she has first become a gentleman or a lady. In view of this ideal the feelings must be disciplined, the passions are to be restrained, true and worthy motives are to be inspired, a profound religious feeling is to be instilled and pure morality inculcated under all circumstance. No man knows what is going on in the mind of the teacher with such an aim, and only those who have had the experience realize the peculiar situations and difficulties which confront the public servant.

IMPROVEMENTS IN MANAGEMENT

It has been my policy to maintain a firm and prudent discipline and to deprive all students of any privileges that seemed to hamper the most successful methods of teaching. I have tried to impress the pupils with the fact that the school is organized for their special benefit and that they in return must give commendable results. I have always tried to make the teachers feel that they are working with me and not under me, and consequently their co-operation has been willing and effective at all times. In the special case of our commercial teacher I wish to state that the way in which she has systematized her work, controlled the congested conditions in her recitation room and brought forth excellent results was astonishing and almost unbelievable. It has been no small matter to control the passing to and from the commercial room and the school-house to the satisfaction of the citizens and school authorities. Without the earnest sincerity of purpose and co-operation of the young ladies and gentlemen who study there it would have been impossible. It has been my custom to hold special sessions after school in the afternoon for those who overstep the common and understood regulations of the school. This has been a successful disciplinary act as well as an aid in raising the scholarship of the school. It is a pleasure to know that no printed rules have been necessary to convince the student body that they must do all in their power to avoid friction between themselves and the teachers and that absolute obedience is the only method of procedure.

IMPROVEMENTS IN COURSE OF STUDY

It is my purpose to meet the requirements of both those who are contemplating no further education and those who are anticipating a college course. At the present time we do not prepare for any colleges except Maine University and the State College at Durham. I believe that we can prepare for entrance to colleges accepted by the New England College Entrance Certificate Board, and with this object in view I am giving my utmost attention and energy to all those who are appealing to me for further instruction in courses which we do not regularly teach. This I am doing at no extra expense to the district. At the present time I am directing instruction in English History (four students), American History (one student), Civil Government (three students), and English (three students), outside of my regular eight periods which I teach in school.

Through the kind assistance of the School Board and Mr. Joseph Pillsbury in making a laboratory desk and procuring the necessary apparatus I am now able to give a course in Physics which is strictly in accordance with the State requirements.

On account of the introduction of debating, public speaking and more of Shakespeare's works in the English courses I believe that I have obtained an advantage over previous instruction in this department. We also take up a thorough practice work in oral and written English which is very helpful and cultural.

This is the first year that second year French has been taught. As this is my specialty, and as I have compared my requirements with those of other schools, I find that it is not difficult to keep pace with even larger institutions in this department of study. All other departments are surely equal in efficiency to the records of any previous year. A course in Business Law is now being given to five boys who petitioned for it.

SCHOLARSHIP

To raise the scholarship in any school is a gradual process. By taking a decided interest in supplying the wants and needs of the students in certain cases I find that they all return the energy and effort, and make an equal attempt to take the bitter along with the sweet. By means of connecting disciplinary methods with this motive you will see that there has been an improvement over the fall term of last year in this respect. Students get full rank for their studies as well as for any other educational work which I may assign to them at any time. The following will be interesting to the public. Average scholarship for the fall term of last year, 79.2 per cent. Average scholarship for the fall term of this year, 81.1 per cent. Let me add that at the present date, February 15, 1915, I can submit a still further improvement.

ATTENDANCE

Attendance is probably one of the most perplexing problems that we have to deal with. On investigation I have found that students were absent or tardy for insufficient reasons, thus seriously impairing the work of both teacher and pupil as well as materially lowering the State appropriation to our district. I try to inculcate at all times that attendance, punctual and continued, in any of life's phases of work is invaluable. My special session system after school corrects this to some degree, but I wish to make a further appeal to the parents to co-operate with me more closely in this respect. The following figures will, however, show an improvement in this respect.

ATHLETICS

At the present time we have a girls basket ball team the athletic and social record of which surpasses that of any school of its size in the State. Our Athletic Association is managed on a firm financial basis, and the reason why we do not foster other athletics is because we have not adequate material in the school. The recreative value of what sports we have is beneficial, and it certainly has not interfered with the scholarship of a single girl. Miss Alley rightfully deserves all credit for developing such a superior team in so short a time.

DEBATING AND PUBLIC SPEAKING

This is something entirely new in school as well as in the community, and I must admit it has been greeted with more public enthusiasm than I anticipated. The educational and practical value of actual experience in analyzing complicated questions, presenting, under the eye of public scrutiny, argument which must be logical and well founded, appearing before an audience which must be convinced by your reasoning power and personal qualifications in appearance and speech, cannot be disputed. It renders a self-confidence and self-reliance which cannot be obtained by any other method. I desire to train my students in this art as far as I can do so efficiently. We have been invited to join the N. H. Inter-scholastic Debating League, and debate with other high school teams, and I hope we will be able to enroll next year. The material is all that could be desired, and the idea has received the unanymous approval of the public.

SCHOOL PAPER

The Mascoma will be published the first day of the last week of each term. This paper will be a true representation of the literary standard of the high school, the spirit of the school, and will also place a great many facts and statistics before the public which will hold their interest at all times. There will be at least twenty pupils connected with the publications each year so that it will render an invaluable experience in literary work and actual business experience to those who will make it a success. This part of the educational purpose of the school will appeal to the boy and girl who have literary inclinations as well as to those who enter into other activities.

RECOMMENDATIONS

I recommend: First, that for the educational and future welfare of the young lives in the whole school, that the community make very reasonable and consistent effort in their power to retain every teacher who is assisting in really making a better school than it now is, and who is adding something to the moral and cultural lives of the young people of the town. A teacher must do either one or the other, and public opinion will soon prove his or her worth.

Second, that the parents and citizens acquaint themselves with the actual conditions under which our commercial students are accommodated. These courses are as good as they possibly could be under the circumstances. Our teacher is far above the average in her department of study, and to keep her we must give her reasonable conditions under which to work. These courses are popular with the students for the reason that the congested conditions in the commercial room, and the short recitations due to the fact that a student must take up about ten minutes at the beginning and end of each recitation passing from one building to another, cause these courses to be easier than the others in the curriculums. I am willing to give my time and deepest thought in solving this problem, as I feel that it is unfair to both teacher and students to continue that department as it is. A new room in the school building, fitted with the proper furniture, would remedy this condition. Owing to the fact that I am a new comer I will admit, however, that I am not qualified to state that you are prepared to take up this matter at once. I shall be glad to do all I can because I realize the situation more seriously than those who do not deal with it every day in the school year.

Third, that every parent and citizen in the town visit the building and each teacher, and insist upon being informed accurately as to the condition of the schools in every particular. We are seeking your suggestions and co-operation.

Fourth, that the parents see to it closely that children attend school at all times when it is possible, and that they consult the teacher or the principal personally regarding all cases of discipline or persistent tardiness.

Fifth, that a course in Chemistry be adopted as soon as financial conditions will permit it. Our curriculums are sadly wanting in sciences.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion permit me to say that it is a satisfaction to know and to feel that the school has a high standard among the best town schools in the State, that the pupils for the most part are ambitious, intelligent and of the right spirit, that the teachers are loyal and able, that the superintendent and other school authorities are most kindly in their criticism and generous in their support, and that the community has a high standard to which the citizen must aim. To work with all my energy and enthusiasm for such a school is indeed a pleasant duty.

I appreciate the welcome Enfield has offered. I appreciate the sincere co-operation and the personal sacrifices of Mr. Kilbourn in behalf of the school, and I appreciate the splendid service that the school board as a whole has rendered me. The teachers have been diligent and co-operative in every instance. It has been a pleasure, indeed, to undertake the work here under your superintendency.

Respectfully submitted,

RAYMOND I. HASKELL.

Enfield, N. H., February 27, 1915

We, the undersigned Auditors of the Town School District, have this day examined the accounts of Herbert E. Walbridge, Treasurer, and we find them correctly cast and properly vouched for.

W. A. WILMOT,

REPORT

OF THE

Superintendent of Schools

The past year has been one of growth and progress. The pupils have been more punctual and regular in attendance, there has been a gain of twenty-eight (28) pupils in the membership of the schools, and the teaching has been especially efficient.

Among the things worthy of special attention and commendation I am pleased to enumerate the following :

1. The increased punctuality of the pupils, the instances of tardiness being reduced by nearly one hundred (100) this year.

2. The continued gain in the regularity of attendance of the pupils, the per cent. for the past year being ninety-three (93), one point higher than the average for the State.

3. The gain in teaching efficiency. The results obtained in reading have been especially commendable, as shown by frequent tests. A comparison of the ranks secured by pupils in taking a test in arithmetic, given in Springfield, Mass., schools in 1846, and repeated in the corresponding grades in our schools in 1915, showed that Enfield pupils ranked more than twice as high as those in the former place in 1846. Is teaching as efficient today as in 1846?

4. The excellent work done and the valuable training secured in promoting public debating.

5. The successful results secured by several teachers in the experiment to unite more closely the school and home by encouraging and giving credits for attention to personal appearance, having regular hours for retiring, sleeping in well-ventilated rooms, and assisting in the performance of home duties.

Certainly the present condition of the schools is most healthy, and the parents and citizens of the town can take considerable pride in the progress which has been made.

The excellent report of the Principal of the High school should receive careful consideration, covering fully, as it does, the High school situation.

While several teachers, who had proven their efficiency and popularity in the Enfield schools, accepted more lucrative positions elsewhere, we feel that we have been very fortunate in securing successful teachers to fill the positions thus made vacant.

Your attention is again called to the recommendation of last year to modernize the rural school-houses.

In conclusion I wish to express to all my keen appreciation of the hearty support and co-operation received.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS A. ROBERTS,

Superintendent.
